IT HAS THE CHANCE.

Ex-Congressman Thomas Ryan Says the Republican Party

CAN NOW DO SOMETHING WISE

If It Wants To—It Now Has the Opportunity to Remedy Existing Evils.

Ex-Congressman Thomas Ryan came home in time to vote and will remain in Topeka. He expects his family here soon.

"Generally," said he to a JOURNAL reporter, "I was somewhat surprised at the result of the election and of course agreeably so. This election teaches several things, and the Republican party has a glorious opportunity. I have the greatest confidence in the American people and it would be folly to assert that there is no cause for this dissatisfaction and unrest. There is cause for it and the Republican party now has the opportunity to find out the cause of the trouble and to remedy it. I believe the statesmen of the Republican party are equal to the task and that they will discover the cause and apply the remedy."

"What the true cause of the trouble is I do not pretend to say. It is a question which requires earnest, careful thought. The laboring people seem to think that the great aggregations of capital which are constantly being formed draw more than their share from the products of labor, and I am not prepared to say that they have not just cause for complaint. The human race is selfish and every one tries to make all the money he can, and it is perfectly legitimate; but apply the same rule to corporations and it is different. The business of the individual is crushed out and competition destroyed. Take our great railway systems; there is not one of them which is not capitalized for twice the cost of the construction and equipment. This simply means that it requires twice as much to pay a profit on the investment as it would if the road were capitalized at the actual cost, and this money must come out of the men who pay for freight or other transportation. It makes a great deal of difference to me, if I am a manufacturer, whether it costs me 25 or 50 cents to get the article I manufacture to market. My profit must be less or the consumer must pay more for the article. That is why it is that the railroads can not charge less for transportation and make a profit on the money invested. One difficulty in the way of rectifying this evil is that innocent people would have to suffer if any change were made. The stock has all been sold and the men who are responsible for the robbery would not suffer. "We will have to get down to a new basis. If I were to go across the street to the owner of a building to rent a room he would ask me a certain price, and he might show me that the building cost him $50,000, and that the price asked for the rooms would only pay him a fair profit on the investment. I could offer no objection to any thing so reasonable. But just across the street is another building, and the proprietor shows me that the building cost him $25,000, and that he can rent me rooms for half what the other man offered to, and still make a fair profit on his investment. Which rooms will I take? The second man's rooms of course. And the first man must come down to a new basis or he will not be able to rent his rooms; and that is the way it is with the business of the country, even though it must set hard upon some.

MRS. CRAWFORD BETTER.

On the Way to Recovery From Her Serious Injury.

Mrs. L. M. Crawford's condition is very much improved today. She is still confined to her bed, but it is expected she will be able to be up in a few days. The entire scalp was lifted, but the skull not injured as at first reported, from her head by her fall down stairs last week, but she will not necessarily bear the marks of it. The fracture of her arm is getting along as well and as rapidly as could be expected. There are many inquiries about her condition at the home, and all are told that she is mending rapidly.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

There is a City Ordinance Against Getting Too Familiar With Fire Hoses.

There is a good healthy city ordinance that treats particularly about riding over hose at a fire, and Charles Foster, L. Van Hook and P. T. Van Ness may get learn about it to their cost. At the fire at the Summer school, hose was stretched almost everywhere, and it was all three or four policemen could do to keep the people off it. The three above named did drive over it in the dark, and were in police court to explain how it happened. Mr. Foster was discharged. The two other gentlemen admitted driving over it, but said they did it accidentally in the dark, and didn't know it was naughty, anyway. The minimum fine is ten dollars for the offense, which rather staggered even Judge Eschminger's hard heart, and he took the matter under advisement until tomorrow morning.

TO BEGIN ON TUESDAY.

The Solicitation of Aims by the Associated Charities.

Walter L. Russ who is the secretary by appointment and generalissimo ex-officio of the Associated Charities and has office temporarily in the office of James H. Griffin in the Hall & O'Donald building on East Eighth street, says he is already beginning to receive numerous calls for aid.

"While the office has only been open for active work three days," he said, "I have already received twelve calls for help. Only one was a case of absolute destitution and that came from a woman in Parkdale who was without food. Most of the applicants want clothing of various sorts."

"After we get the system running smoothly I shall not consider any applications that are not recommended on proper blanks by the district visitor. I am busy just now getting my districts and visitors appointed for the winter. I have endeavored to have the districts contain about one thousand people each regardless of the number of blocks it contains and to that end the districts in the city will number forty-one. I have already selected thirty-four of the visitors and I think I have good ones. Only two of them are men."

"On Monday afternoon we will hold a visitor's meeting and give the winter's instructions and on Tuesday the soliciting will begin. The first thing we need is clothing and shoes. There will not be many calls for food and coal yet as we have had so little cold weather."

LOCAL MENTION.

The cases of scarlet fever in the family of James Hudson at Eleventh and Chandler streets are convalescent.

A. W. Dana says he is not and has not been an applicant for the position of state librarian, although some of his friends have been mentioning his name in that connection.

John Hogan, who was foolish enough to get into Montgomery Massey's house, in North Topeka, last week and get one leg entangled in a rope that Mr. Massey secured for the purpose, was examined in Justice Chesney's court and bound over to the district court in the sum of $300, which he was unable to give. He is in the county jail.
